

The Chinese Government is sending a special envoy here to thank our Government for returning the surplus of the Boxer indemnity fund. He is coming with a big suite, and the Government will probably spend more than was returned, before the envoy and his party get back. The Chinese are Orientalists know some things about spending money that would make one of our millionaires turn green with envy.

United States Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, has announced he would be a candidate for the Senate in 1910, hence, to succeed Senator McCumber.

Hansbrough is now serving his 18th year in the Senate. He was elected for re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the primaries last June.

The itinerary of the return home from Manila of the battleship fleet has been announced at the Navy Department. The fleet will leave Manila Dec. 1, arrive at Cebu Dec. 14, stay there three days, and then depart for Suez, which is scheduled to reach on Jan. 5. The ships will pass through the canal and coal at Port Said as expeditiously as possible.

They are to spend the month of January and a few days early in February in the Mediterranean, going in two or three days to different ports in the Levant, the Adriatic Sea, and on the African coast. They are to reach New York on Feb. 22. My! my! but won't they get a welcome.

Dr. G. Suto, Professor in the Imperial University of Tokyo, Dr. C. K. Sumoto, Professor in the highest medical college of Osaka, and Dr. Y. Kon, Professor in the medical college of Formosa, are in Washington.

The mission of the Japanese doctors in this country is the comparative study of the educational institutions. They will visit Harvard, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Yale, and Johns Hopkins universities.

Fire destroyed the St. Charles Hotel building in Richmond, Va., last Friday, in which were Senator James B. McCreary's law offices and the Kentucky Register newspaper office. Five other buildings were burned or damaged.

A German firm has brought out a German edition of one of President Roosevelt's titles, "A Cowboy Among Cowboys."

The critics say that the book has an immeasurable ethnological value. It is the first time that the President has been portrayed in the picture gallery of the White House. The picture is a reproduction of the one in the White House, and is a very good one. It is a reproduction of the one in the White House, and is a very good one.

And now comes the expected. Mr. Early, Washington's most famous "leper," says he doesn't think he has leprosy, and that he is getting well, and he kicked "like a bay steer," so to speak, when some famous doctors of medicine and surgery offered to treat him.

Mr. Early said "no," and "no" goes in all probability. Mr. Early said "no," and "no" goes in all probability. Mr. Early said "no," and "no" goes in all probability.

Washington's school children will have nearly $5,000,000 spent on the improvement of their minds during the school year. If the requests of the Board of Education are granted, it will maintain the army of 1,640 teachers who daily instruct in the scores of schools and to provide proper places for the growing number of children.

It is a fact that the school children of Washington are better educated than at any time in the history of the District. The school buildings are very badly crowded, too. Congress should be more liberal, and it is to be hoped that the District will get what it asks for.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt-Longworth, who has been sojourning at the White House while her own home was being put in order, is back on the campaign trail with her husband, Representative Longworth, who is making some speeches in Ohio. Representative Longworth is a right good talker, too. He is a pretty good mixer, and while not a humorist, he yet manages to hold his audience.

The other evening a young lady in Washington took an overdose of some strong medicine, and the emergency ambulance was called to her home. At a corner the horse stumbled, the driver was thrown and hurt and the horse disabled. The crowd that quickly gathered around the ambulance was so large that it was difficult to get the horse out. In a second 20 had hold of the shafts, the horse was dragged out, and that ambulance went on its way. The girl's life was saved. Some society women, whose escorts were dragging the wagon, cheered the men as they went, leaving the ladies in evening attire standing alone at the corner. Among the men who helped was a tramp, and another was a boy who had no home and had just dropped into "One touch of pity makes the whole world kin."

Dr. Williams, who was injured when a horse was killed at Fort Myer, on Sept. 17, by the breaking of his horse, is now in the hospital.

drome, while in flight, has not been in a condition satisfactory to his physicians the last few days, and visitors have been denied access to him. Even Lieut. Lahm, of the Signal Corps, was refused admission to the sick room on his return from St. Joseph, Mo., with Lieut. Foulis and the men of the aerial squad, which has been practicing there with the Baldwin army dirigible No. 1.

The change in Mr. Wright's condition is not regarded as serious, but he will be confined to his bed for at least two months.

Unless the present plans of the Navy Department are changed the Atlantic battleship fleet will come home direct to Hampton Roads. The fleet, according to the present plans, will remain two or three days in Hampton Roads for a grand review by President Roosevelt, then go to New York, to remain five or six days, to give the men shore leave, and then go to Guantanamo for target practice.

This is the first official admission that Hampton Roads would be the home of the fleet. The fleet has been in consideration which influenced the selection of Hampton Roads is the almost unlimited amount of anchorage facilities it has here, the question of climatic conditions being more favorable at the Virginia port has had some weight, as has had, also, the less important, the sentimental one, of having the ships return to the place whence they started on their long journey.

A good many Government clerks of both parties are wondering just what the White House will do with the matter. They are all agreed that it is a "pernicious activity," and their places in Government employ may be the price they will have to pay for their refusal to vote. They are all agreed that it is a "pernicious activity," and their places in Government employ may be the price they will have to pay for their refusal to vote.

The President himself always exercises the right to vote, and frequently is put to great inconvenience and loss of time in so doing. Arrangements already have been made for the President to vote in the classified service in going to his home to vote at the coming election. The President, in discussing this subject, said it was the duty of every citizen to vote, and that he was entitled to a vote to go to his home and cast that ballot for his chosen candidate.

The White House faces north, and from the great portico under whose lofty roof have passed all the great men of our country, as you look straight up 14th street across Lafayette Park, and over the head of Gen. Scott, who sits eternally pointing his white finger at the clouds, you will see the entrance to the White House. That park is one of the beauty spots of Washington, even if the Lafayette Monument is a freak.

The National Conservation Commission has caused the first comprehensive attempt at a census of the standing timber in the United States ever undertaken. It is a very important work, and is being carried out with great care.

On one occasion while in a state of coma the negro's hands turned almost white, and peculiar spots appeared on his face, as if a very violent searchlight had been directed upon him. When under these strange spells the patient warbles like a bird and makes motions with his fingers as if playing a piano. Relatives of the man say he has never touched a musical instrument, and he always manifested a dislike for music.

The National Conservation Commission has caused the first comprehensive attempt at a census of the standing timber in the United States ever undertaken. It is a very important work, and is being carried out with great care.

According to one of the most carefully prepared estimates made by Henry Gannett, and published by the Twelfth Census, the total stumpage was 1,390,000,000,000 board feet. Expert opinion is that the standing timber in the United States is about 100,000,000,000 board feet. One leading authority has placed it as high as 150,000,000,000 board feet.

Assuming a stumpage of 1,400,000,000,000 feet, and neglecting growth in the calculation, the exhaustion of our timber supply is indicated in 14 years. Assuming the same rate of growth, an annual growth of 40,000,000,000 feet, we have a supply for 22 years.

The Commission is achieving its results through a tremendous amount of correspondence. For instance, 3,000 letters have gone out to County Clerks, asking for statements of forest areas in their Counties. Seven thousand lumbermen and land timber land have been asked to supply similar information. In all nearly 150,000 letters have been sent.

These letters also touch upon all phases not only of the lumbering and milling industries, but of all others which are even indirectly dependent upon the use of wood.

All the States of the Union are co-operating, and will furnish statistics concerning State forest lands.

Dr. Wu Tingfang, Chinese Minister to the United States, and Secretary of State Elihu Root have signed an arbitration treaty between the United States and China.

The convention is similar to those negotiated by Secretary Root last winter with several European powers. It provides for the adjustment by arbitration of practically all disputes between the United States and the various countries, and will remain in force for a period of five years from the date of its ratification by both Nations. It will be presented to the Senate for its approval next session.

"Small and Early" are the social features of the White House just now. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt have somebody to dinner with them almost every night, and have recently given several box parties at the theater. Last Thursday afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt entertained a select lot of friends at a musicale in the East Room. The artist was Mr. George Hamlin, a famous tenor of New York.

The District of Columbia Jail is full to overflowing. Not that the people of the District are any worse than they are elsewhere, but it so happens that the District of Columbia "catches" em a-comin' and a-givin', and we have taken care of the toughs from all sections of the country. It must be remembered that Washington is the gateway between the Northeast and the Southwest.

floor, for that matter, is upon two small elevators, which hold about 15 people each, when in perfect working condition. A four-story building has two turns in it to each story. Two people can just pass each other on that stairway. To get to the top of the building, the visitor has to go up the first floor, there is a two-foot stairway of five or six steps, with a small platform at the top step, and one at the foot, where there is a step off onto steps which lead to the lower regions. It is an extremely dangerous place, and to get to the stage it is necessary to use a blind stairway. The two big elevators are very fine and most comfortable, but the way of getting to them will probably always be a bar to large crowds going there. It is a thousand pities that this great, handsome building should have been so badly arranged as to its interior. Imposing as the building is on the exterior, it should have had at least an eight-foot stairway and elevators that will carry 50 people. It is said that the elevators will be used to take people up, and the stairs will be used to take them down. If there were a panic on the fifth floor the loss of life would be measured, in all probability, by the number of people on the floor added to the number on the lower floors. Five people can effectively block the stairways and the elevators.

They are telling a story about some pictures, alleged to be "paintings in oil," of past Postmaster-Generals, which have been hanging in the ante-room of the Post Office building. The pictures are "fired," to put it mildly. The story runs that years ago Congress appropriated $20,000 for a collection of the portraits of successive heads of the Post Office Department. The portraits were made by an eccentric artist, who possessed the friendship of several members of the House, and it developed that the artist had conspired with the money paid, that the artist had never seen any of the men whose pictures he had produced, and had no pictures of any models whatsoever. The artist had produced the pictures of the faces ever assembled together on a wall or anywhere else.

There was a rarely pleasant two hours at the White House one day last week, when some "Welsh warblers" wandered in and unloosed their voices for the President. They were the "Mountain Ash Male Voice Party of Wales." Their choruses resounded thru the White House in the afternoon, where they sang for the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, members of the Cabinet, and a small party of guests. For nearly two hours these Cornwal miners sang their folksongs, anthems of their forefathers, national melodies, and Welsh songs.

With some trepidation the Welshmen ventured to sing "The God Save the King," which melody of "God Save the King" they sang in a very good way. They sang "The Star Spangled Banner," "Men of Harlech," "Moria Rhuddlan," "Old Black Joe," "Marches of the Arena," "Homeward Bound," "Ty Man" (my mother) and wound up with an arrangement of Welsh melodies.

Sergt. Mingo Sanders, of the colored troops, discharged by President Roosevelt for participation in the Brownsville raid, has sent the President a letter requesting that he be reinstated in the Army.

Accompanying the letter is an affidavit from Sanders denying he took part in the shooting up of Brownsville, or that he had any knowledge of who did the shooting. He claims to have been at the time on the night of the trouble. Sanders points to his record of six discharges after meritorious service, and his seventh discharge without honor.

The President modified his order of discharge of the troops about a year ago, and under it each discharged soldier applying to re-enlist can be taken into the army by the enlisting officer. It is understood the soldier with a good record, who will swear that he took no part in the outrage and has no knowledge of the guilty persons, can be re-enlisted.

VETERAN REPUBLICAN LEAGUES. They Are Doing Remarkable Work in Ohio for Gov. Harris's Re-election. Special to The National Tribune.

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—A feature of the campaign in Ohio which is attracting universal attention is the remarkable activity of Union veterans thru the medium of several hundred political clubs operating successfully in every one of the 88 Counties of the State. These clubs are affiliated with the United Veterans' Republican League, an organization which was formed only four weeks ago thru the efforts of Col. W. S. Rogers, the State Fire Marshal, who is generally recognized as being perhaps the closest personal friend of Gov. Andrew L. Harris in the State.

It is essentially the ardent devotion of the veterans and the members of their families for Gov. Harris in his whirlwind campaign for re-election, which is responsible for the enthusiasm aroused in the club movement. Ohio veterans love Gov. Harris, their most distinguished comrade, and they are working hard and long to get him re-elected. They are working hard and long to get him re-elected. The 20th Ohio. Editor National Tribune: Please give a short history of the 20th Ohio—W. H. Cooper, East Auburn, Cal.

The 20th Ohio was organized at Columbus from August to September, 1861, and was finally mustered out July 15, 1865. It was commanded by Col. Chas. Whittlesby, a West Point man, who resigned April 19, 1862, succeeded by Col. Manning R. Pomeroy, who was promoted Sept. 3, 1863, to Brigadier-General. At the time of his mustering-out, Lieut.-Col. Harrison Wilson was in command. It belonged to Logan's Division, Seventeenth Corps, and lost 93 killed and 271 wounded. Please send me a copy of the National Tribune.

Last Chance--Only 100 Copies Left. Alphabetical List of Battles. From the Official Records--From 1754 to 1900, With Dates. The date of any one of the 8,220 battles, skirmishes, and other incidents of the War of the Rebellion, or of any one of the 1,351 engagements of the Spanish-American War and Philippine Insurrection can be referred to as easily as to a word in the dictionary.

All of the battles of the Old Wars are arranged in the same manner, with a brief sketch of each engagement, including the losses. The Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution will find many things of interest, as the battles of the Revolution are full and complete.

It has been adopted as authority by the United States Pension Bureau, and there are 1,500 copies in use in that office. It gives the number killed and wounded in each engagement during the Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection, and the Disturbance in China.

The principal events of the Rebellion, Spanish-American War, Philippine Insurrection and the Disturbance in China are recorded chronologically as they occurred from day to day. This alone is worth the price of the book. As a book of reference it has no equal. Teachers, reporters and authors speak in highest terms of the work.

It will be found a ready reference to settle disputes as to dates of battles and other incidents; and by marking the various engagements in which comrades took part, they will have a record that their children and grandchildren will be proud to exhibit. The book will enable comrades to retrace, in memory, the long marches, and engagements in which they participated from Fort Sumter to Appomattox, and from Cuba to the Philippines. The data from which this book was compiled are principally from official records, requiring a careful search of nearly 100 volumes of the Rebellion Records and the reports of the various Departments for years. The book is neatly bound in cloth, and contains 252 pages, well indexed. If, after examination you are pleased with the book, show it to your comrades. If not, return it and get your money. Sent postpaid. Price $1.00 per copy. Address: THE NATIONAL TRIBUNE, 519 Thirteenth Street N. W., Washington, D. C.
